The parish of San Felipe de Neri, of Old Albuquerque, will celebrate the feast of St. Philip of Neri next Sunday, in accordance with yearly custom. For more than two centuries the feast has been observed in Old Albuquerque. Old Town will be in gata dress.

The festa will begin at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning with a concert by the Indian school band in the plaza. Mass will be celebrated in the ancient church at 9:30.

Gates will be held in the plaza at 9 o'clock in the afternoon. Climbing the grassed pole will be one of the diversions.

At 10 o'clock the solemn religious procession, the image of St. Philip carried at the head. At 8 o'clock church and plaza will be illuminated with thousands of lights. Cannon will be fired and the band will give another concert. Vespers will be chanted in the church at 7:30 o'clock.

CRAVING FOR DRUG LEADS ADDICT TO STEAL COAT

Morphine and Cocaine Fiends Offer Puzzling Problems to Police Department of the City.

Moved by an uncontrollable craving for morphine, Tom Tucker, a drug addict, stole a coat from a South Second Street residence yesterday in order to get money for the purchase of the drug. He pawned the coat for $125 and obtained the drug.

The police arrested Tucker after the theft of the coat was reported to them. He admitted his guilt. He had to have the drug, he said, and found it impossible to resist the temptation to do so. Police J. C. Johnson, during sentence, nine to 20 days in the county jail this morning. Two hours later he was shaking in his cell, and whimpering pitifully for morphine.

The drug addicts that fall into their hands offer a puzzling problem to the police. They commit various petty crimes in order to obtain funds for the purchase of morphine, which furnishes a big percentage of the police business. They are sentenced to the county jail for various terms, and the county authorities give them the drug they crave, because it is a necessity for them. They come out of the jail, and begin their self-drugging when they left off when they were sent down. It does not seem to occur to them or them, because they have no money for railroad fare, and after tramping perhaps as far as Isleta they go crazy for the drug. They can't get it in Isleta and return to Albuquerque, and the same round of drug theft, jail, drug, vagrancy, jail begins again.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church will give a tea at the home of Mrs. W. W. Strong, six Park avenue, Saturday, from 3 to 6 p. m.

F. hall Sunday, June 7th at 10 a. m. to march in a body to the church.
